

You have the right to limit sharing of information

We gather and keep information about you in order to understand and fulfill your financial needs with high quality products and services. All financial institutions, including Bay Federal Credit Union, need to share customers' personal information to run their everyday business.

This document provides you with specific information regarding our sharing practices. You have the right to limit information sharing in certain circumstances. Please see the inside of this important disclosure for ways you may choose to opt-out of information sharing.

Our Privacy Pledge

Bay Federal Credit Union is committed to protecting the privacy of all our members. We value the trust you place in us, and we pledge to keep your personal information and financial records safe, secure, and confidential, in keeping with our own service standards and with state and federal laws.

We believe it is important that you understand our commitment to you. Please read further to learn how we collect and disclose your non-public personal information and how you can limit what information we share about you.

"Non-public personal information" means any personally-identifiable financial information about you that is not available to the general public, such as your Social Security Number or account numbers. This document explains all the ways we gather and disclose this information.

PRIVACY NOTICE

Who we are
Who is providing this notice? Bay Federal Credit Union

What we do
How does Bay Federal Credit Union protect my personal information?
All Bay Federal Credit Union staff and volunteers are trained to protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use. We use physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with federal regulations. We secure our physical premises and maintain up-to-date security features on our online systems. Any data transmitted through our web site is secured during transmission by our SSL (Secure Sockets Layer) encryption technology.

How does Bay Federal Credit Union collect my personal information?
Information We Collect
We collect your personal information, for example, when you:

- open an account or deposit money
- pay your bills or apply for a loan
- use your credit or debit card

We also collect your personal information from others such as credit bureaus, affiliates, or other companies. We gather and keep information about you in order to understand and fulfill your financial needs with high quality products and services. This information is essential to us for completing your transactions and maintaining your accounts and related records. We collect information from:

- You—in person, in writing, or through the Internet
- Your transactions and experiences with us and our affiliates
- Non-affiliated third parties, regarding their transactions and experiences with you
- Credit Reporting agencies and similar companies

How does Bay Federal Credit Union collect my personal information? (continued)

Information We Disclose
In the course of conducting our business, we may share any of the information we collect about you with third parties if:

- You request or authorize it
- We provide the information to help complete a transaction that you initiated
- We provide the information to a third party providing services to us, such as data processing, printing, and mailing
- The disclosure is otherwise lawfully required or permitted—for example, when we share our transaction experiences with you to comply with a government agency or court order, or to report to credit reporting agencies

We share information that we collect about you with other companies who perform services for us. For example, to maintain and service your accounts or to fulfill your transaction requests, we share information with non-financial service providers such as data-processors, printing companies, and mailing companies. We only disclose enough information to enable the third party to perform the service on our behalf. We require that all third parties providing services to us sign agreements affirming that they will keep your information confidential and comply with all applicable privacy laws. In addition, we may share information about you to other third parties not described in this notice, as permitted by law.

Why can't I limit all sharing?
Federal law gives you the right to limit only:

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for non-affiliates to market to you.

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.

What happens when I limit sharing for an account I hold jointly with someone else?
Your choice will apply to you and to all joint owners in your account(s).

Definitions

Affiliates	Companies related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
Nonaffiliates	Companies not related by common ownership or control. They can be financial and nonfinancial companies.
Joint marketing	A formal agreement between nonaffiliated financial companies that together market financial products or services to you.
